

It has come to my attention that the FCC is investigating the value of LPFM stations, with the possibility of giving these stations priority over current FM stations -- including listener-supported K-Love (heard in Denver on FM 91.1). It is my earnest hope that the FCC will consider the value to the community of this station, and continue allowing its broadcast. My family has chosen to listen to K-Love for several years due to the encouraging family values it promotes, important news coverage, and tasteful commentating by its djs. There is no other station I would feel comfortable promoting my children listen to. Were K-Love taken off the air, we would be at a loss for radio enjoyment in our home and car. Other local stations are not suitable for my family's personal views, nor are their announcers' words or song choices appropriate for children's ears. If LPFM stations were allowed to force K-Love off the air, my family would no longer listen to or support local radio. It is evident that K-Love is of valuable public interest simply because I am the public and I am supportive of keeping the station on-air. There are many thousands of individuals and families around the country, and around the world, who enjoy the community of K-Love; and, to that end, are even willing to personally financially support the station, as my family does, to ensure its airtime. It is clear there is a demand for the offerings of K-Love by the fact that its listeners, ensuring the station's continued broadcasting, abundantly financially support K-Love. Thank you in advance for your consideration of this matter. I hope to have the option of listening to K-Love without fear of its discontinuation.
